

ASCE Environmental and Water Resources Technical Group - Web Seminar

The Environmental Water Research Technical Group of the ASCE-Philadelphia Chapter is notifying members that GZA GeoEnvironmental, Inc. in Fort Washington, PA will be hosting the ASCE/EWRI web/teleconference seminar on:

Stormwater BMPs: What Works, What Doesn't and What About Maintenance

The Seminar will be presented on Monday, August 30, 2010 from noon to 1:30. The cost is $30 per person and lunch will be provided. Each attendee will be eligible for 1.5 Professional Development Hours (PDHs) that can be used towards the requirements for their Pennsylvania Professional Engineer license. Space is limited to the first twelve (12) people to register. GZA is offering their conference room as an economical means for professionals to earn the required PDHs. A more complete description of the seminar can be found at the following link:

<https://secure.asce.org/ASCEWebSite/Webinar/ListWebinarDetail.aspx?ProdId=16501>

If you are interested in attending this seminar or if your organization is interested in hosting a future ASCE teleconference seminar, please contact Eric Lindhult at 267-464-3613 or email him at eric.lindhult@gza.com.

GZA's office is located at 501 Office Center Drive, Suite 220; Fort Washington, PA. Please arrive between 11:30 and 11:45 to register, enjoy lunch and network with colleagues prior to the start of the presentation promptly at noon.